

Statement of participation

Guest user

has completed the free course including any mandatory tests for:

English grammar in context

This 15-hour free course looked at the way grammar can be used as a tool for adapting our communications (both written and spoken).

Issue date: 14 March 2022

www.open.edu/openlearn

This statement does not imply the award of credit points nor the conferment of a University Qualification.
This statement confirms that this free course and all mandatory tests were passed by the learner.

Please go to the course on OpenLearn for full details:

<https://www.open.edu/openlearn/education-development/education/english-grammar-context/content-section-0>

COURSE CODE: E303_1

English grammar in context

<https://www.open.edu/openlearn/education-development/education/english-grammar-context/content-section-0>

Course summary

--- Please note: This course is due to be archived on Wednesday 21st December. You can study the course up until this date. For learners who have completed the course, the Statement of Participation will remain in your learner records in your OpenLearn profile. --- What are the differences between spoken and written English? Is use of grammar more or less complex than it appears? This free course, English grammar in context, looks at the way grammar can be used as a tool for adapting our communications (both written and spoken). This OpenLearn course will help you to see how language is intertwined with both describing a view of the world and interacting with others in that world.

Learning outcomes

By completing this course, the learner should be able to:

- Understand the differences between spoken and written English
- Understand the factors that influence use of grammar and vocabulary in speech and writing
- Understand the different ways in which grammar has been described.

Completed study

The learner has completed the following:

Section 1

Why study grammar?

Section 2

Developments in grammatical description

Section 3

Grammar and contextual variation