

Document name: Peaches and Green
Document date: 2011
Copyright information: Rachel C. Parton
OpenLearn Study Unit: TD223 International development: making sense of a changing world
OpenLearn url: <http://www.open.edu/openlearn/society/international-development/understanding-international-development/content-section-2.2>

'Peaches and Green', Parton's Ponderings, personal blog (online) by Rachel C. Parton.

Document name: Peaches and Green
Document date: 2011
Copyright information: Rachel C. Parton
OpenLearn Study Unit: TD223 International development: making sense of a changing world
OpenLearn url: <http://www.open.edu/openlearn/society/international-development/understanding-international-development/content-section-2.2>

Peaches & Greens

Acknowledgements to Rachel Parton.

Yesterday Doug and I joined a few other members of Imprint and headed to Detroit to work on Peaches & Greens. Peaches & Greens is headed up by the Central Detroit Christian Community Development Corporation (CDC). Unfortunately, I forgot to take my camera with me, but thankfully our friend Heather took hers – these are a couple of her pictures:

Side of the building – it used to be a dry cleaner (© Rachel C. Parton)

Slowly, but surely.

Here are some facts from research that Heather presented at our meeting on Friday night:

- detroit has no national chain supermarkets
- no other major city in the USA has such a ‘food desert’ as detroit
- a majority of the city’s residents rely on convenience stores for food necessities.

...It was a pretty hot and tiring day, but it felt so good to know that we are contributing to something that is such a huge need in Detroit.

Source: Parton Ponderings blog