Hello, I'm Huw Stephens and I had the pleasure of presenting Wales: Music Nation, a TV programme co-produced by BBC Cymru Wales and The Open University.

If you enjoyed the programme or have an interest in Welsh music, check out the Wales: Music Nation collection on OpenLearn – where you'll find free learning resources that delve into the history of Welsh music. You'll also find free online courses on music theory, recording music, music research and more.

OpenLearn is the home of free learning from The Open University, where you can access thousands of hours of online learning for free – from 60 second videos to full length courses. OpenLearn can help you with your career development, support your children with their schoolwork or just quench your thirst for knowledge – it's all designed to fit easily into your daily life, so you can learn at your own pace.

OpenLearn covers a massive range of topics from Greek history to renewable energy – and everything in between - including now Welsh music!
