

Reflecting on elements of the course

1.

Which aspect of the unit did you find most motivating?

For example:

- the input materials?
- the unit tutorial?
- the application task?
- the community link materials?
- interacting with peers on the forum?
- personalised feedback from your tutor on your professional recognition task?

Why? What has been the impact on your practice/thinking?

How do you intend to build on this/make the most of this in the remainder of the course?

2.

Which part of the unit did you find the most challenging?

For example:

- the input materials?
- the unit tutorial?
- the application task?
- the community link materials?
- interacting with peers on the forum?
- personalised feedback from your tutor on your professional recognition task?

Why? What has been the impact on your motivation for the course as a whole?

How might you address/overcome this challenge in the remainder of the course?

Reflecting on elements of the course

3.	In the most recent tutorial or forum discussion, what stood out for you the most (either positively or negatively)? Why? What has been the impact on your thinking, your overall experience of the course, your teaching practice, your colleagues and/or your pupils as a result?
4.	In relation to the unit you have been studying most recently: • What experience did you have of the issue beforehand? What did you already know about the theme of the unit? • What did you learn during the unit? • What will you do with your new understanding?
5.	Was there any aspect of the forum/tutorial discussion that you disagreed with or were surprised by? How did you handle this while the discussion was going on? Did you engage? If yes, why and how? If not, why not, and how might you engage constructively with comments that you disagree or are surprised by in the future?

Reflecting on elements of the course

6.	In what way/s has the unit (or the course in general) increased your curiosity or awareness about an aspect of Scots language and culture education?
7.	How well have you communicated with: • other students on the forum • other students in the unit tutorial • your tutor in your professional recognition submissions? In future, how can you do this even better?
